A book-launch and set of reflections combined with a celebration, this event marks the release of the new edition of 'We Were Making History...': Life Stories of Women in the Telangana People's Struggle by Zubaan Books. This compilation of first-person accounts of women who participated in the historic Telangana uprising (1946—1951), begun by the rebellious peasantry of the princely state of Hyderabad and ended by the new republic, was put together by members of the Stree Shakti Sanghatana, a Hyderabad-based women's group active in the post-Emergency years. The founding of the Anveshi Research Centre for Women's Studies was a part of the group's legacy.

The powerful 'life stories' in the book, featuring figures like Chityala Ailamma, Kondapalli Koteswaramma, Jamalunnisa Baji, Brij Rani Gour, and Mallu Swarajyam, were first published in Telugu as Manaku Teliyani Mana Charithra (1986). Possibly the first instance of a full-length research publication featuring the poetic Telugu of Telangana in the speech of Ailamma, Kamalamma, Dudala Salamma and others, this book was subsequently translated into English to reach academic and lay readers in that language.

This seminar aims to explore the significance of the book, for its moment and ours: its language and reflexive framing, the problems it posed and those it left out, and the paths it laid for the practice of solidarity through modes of listening and of attentiveness. 'We Were Making History...' promises not only to move us anew, but also to engender fresh questions about history, politics, and feminist imaginations of equality and freedom.
